Fish First, People Last

The voracious gypsy moth, pushing relentlessly southward, has begun denuding Virginia. The northward-moving “Africanized” (hybrid) honeybee has turned up near Bakersfield, California. Meanwhile, in Yellowstone Park, eastern brook trout have appeared where only native cutthroat trout should be, causing a biologist to exclaim: “We got really excited fast, because there’s no way on earth the thing could get here unless it got up and walked across the mountains.”

America’s regional ecosystems are going a bit haywire, and the experts are duly alarmed. The mysterious appearance of hundreds of brook trout in Wyoming’s Arnica Creek brought the usual outpouring of media concern:

“They found an alien in Yellowstone Park.”

“The alien intruder . . . sparked a full-bore government response.”

“The official reaction was swift and hard.”

“The guilty party [who introduced the alien trout] faces up to five years in prison . . . .”

“The coming of the alien species would mean ‘corruption of the genetic pool’ of the native cutthroat trout.”

“Wherever that brook trout is introduced, it becomes dominant, and the native species die away.”

“Biologists poisoned about eight miles of the creek to remove all traces of the alien species. Park Superintendent Bob Barbee offered a $1,000 reward for information on any person responsible . . . .”

The well-known fact that 75% of the babies being born today in the public hospitals of Los Angeles County belong to illegal alien mothers is no cause for alarm at a time when Eastern brook trout are loose and breeding in Yellowstone Park!

The latest news from the human ecology frontlines of California is that the Superior Court of Alameda County has ruled that any illegal alien who lives in the state for one year, and then declares his intention of residing permanently, is “legally” entitled to in-state tuition rates at all of California’s public colleges. The court’s decision will not be appealed by the state university system because doing so “would send the wrong message to the Hispanic community.” What this means is that lifelong legal residents of adjacent states like Nevada, who attend public institutions of higher learning in California, must now pay about $4,000 a year more in tuition than illegals who have never set foot in the U.S. before December 1984!

Ma II Takes Over from Ma I

Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, the fakir with 90 Rolls Royces and six private airplanes, who lords it over 54,000 Oregon acres, put the administration of his free-loving flock in the hands of Ma Anand Sheela when he took a vow of silence a few years ago. Sheela, the press said, is an Asian Indian. Not quite. She once described herself as a Jewess from India who married an American husband named Goldberg, Silverberg or something. Ma recently decamped to Europe with a band of detectors and presumably a pot of the Bhagwan’s cash. Thereupon her ex-guru accused her of every crime in the book -- cheating him out of $55 million, bigotry, arson, attempted poisoning, murder, conspiracy and the most grievous crime of all, fascism.

So what does the Bhagwan do to clean house? He appoints Ma Prem Harya as his second in command. Who is Ma III? She is the former Françoise Ruddy, a millionairress once married to Hollywood producer Al Ruddy, who is responsible for such immortal works of television art as Hogan’s Heroes. To win favor with the press, Françoise explained how she spent her early years in France dodging the Nazis, who put her on their “most wanted” list because of her Jewish genes. Her father, she alleges, was one of the Holocausted.

Apparently the Bhagwan can’t get along with the Chosen and can’t get along without them. We wonder if his travails have caused Rev. Sun Myung Moon to have second thoughts about his own Universal Church, the American branch of which he has placed under the thumb of Mose Durst, a racial cousin of the two Mas.

In mid-September one member of the Rajneesh cult, Swami Lazarus, died from AIDS. Unlike his namesake, he is not expected to rise from the dead. Meanwhile, another AIDS victim in the Bhagwan’s commune has been “lovingly” quarantined.

In late October, the Bhagwan flew the coop, but was apprehended in North Carolina and returned to Oregon to stand trial. Ma I, now in jail in West Germany, may also be handed over to Oregon authorities. In the end, however, the Bhagwan plea-bargained his way back to India.

Crashed Computer

Having one’s office or warehouse blown to smithereens by a political foe makes terrific newspaper “copy” (except where the silent treatment has been decreed). Having one’s computer electronically “blown” by a saboteur, though almost as destructive, is less conducive to attention and sympathy.

Those white survivalists who began wondering if David Duke and his organization NAAWP (the National Association for the Advancement of White People, Box 10625, New Orleans, LA 70181) had fallen off the edge of the earth sometime late last spring were finally apprised of the fact that an expert saboteur, while visiting the NAAWP office, had crashed its data file with some sort of magnetic or electronic impulse device. Repair technicians told Duke they had never seen a computer so thoroughly “blown.”

Rather than bask in self-pity, NAAWP’s president plunged ahead with his normal workload of about 25 radio and TV interviews per month -- which reach a million or so listeners. Since many of the Duke interviews last up to three hours, who would deny that millions of American minds have been opened up an inch or two by the man’s perseverance over the past decade?

People Make Events

William Bennett, the Secretary of Education, has been plumping hard lately for America’s “Judeo-Christian heritage.” But don’t bother the man with evidence of the nation’s North European pagan or “barbarian” heritage, which two illuminating articles in The Co-Evolution Quarterly (since renamed Whole Earth Review) recently identified as the single most important source of Western freedoms.

The first article, “White America is Predominantly a Viking Culture,” by Michael Phillips, ran in the Summer 1982 issue. The second, “Barbarians and Empire,” by Frederic Fuller, appeared one year later, and stressed particularly the ancient Celtic contribution to the West. Both made a wide array of evidence for the proposition that Western freedom -- not to mention the linguistic, genetic and social content of our culture -- is largely an inheritance from the polytheistic, nature-loving, egalitarian, tribal north, whereas imperialism, bureaucracy and religious fundamentalism come from an urban Middle Eastern tradition.

“I am fascinated by this tale of the untold side of our heritage,” wrote editor Stewart Brand, the creator of the Whole Earth Catalog.

Secretary Bennett seems to be a lot less curious about the subject. In an article in the Summer 1985 issue of Policy Review, published by the neo-conservative Heritage Foundation (accent on the “con”), Bennett rightly called the historical ignorance of young Americans a grave danger. But a hint of his own naivete appeared when he wrote, “We should teach our students history, but not a selective history.”

All history is selective, of course, and none more so than the single-line-of-progression version which proceeds breathlessly from Egypt to Greece to Rome to the Renaissance to modern Anglo-America. Law-ence R. Brown's The Might of the West exposed the delusions bound up in that breathtakingly simple-minded version.

Southern Sea Change

It was an altogether different country that H.L. Mencken depicted in his book, American 1925. As a mountain of newspaper clippings recounting the boobish behavior of some folks in America's great WASPish hinterlands piled up, he culled the funniest and the oddest, organized the lot by state, and printed them under his own acerbic introductions.

One Deep South morsel came from a black newspaper in Jacksonville called the Florida Sentinel. It described, in Mencken's words, "how the Fourteenth Amendment is enforced among the Nordic Blond Baptists of rural Florida."

WARNING TO NEGRO TOURISTS

Those who have automobiles want to exercise more caution when driving over the State. The small villages and towns are still far from civilized and at every opportunity give the Negro half a chance.

The Negro who drives a Ford gets by no better than one who drives a Lincoln. Every one must pay a toll for driving through these small white settlements. You don't have to speed. If you roll along at the rate of four miles an hour, if you happen to be the least colored it is sufficient reason to hold you up and take from you a batch of your gold cash, and on top of that be rough-necked by a man whose nickel-faced badge is his only protection against the charge of highway robbery.

If you want to get abused be thoughtless enough to get short of gas near one of these village filling-stations. You are as likely as not to be arrested on a charge of car stealing and be detained in jail without even a chance of getting a hearing within a week.

The little country court is worse than the speed cop, so there you are. . . .

Don't leave your city unless you are certain you have enough gas to carry you to the next city.

Don't stop at the village filling-stations.

Don't buy sodas, cigars or lunches along the path of your trip.

In 1925, blacks driving fancy cars were a rare sight on Florida Highways. Hispanic drivers were undreamed-of. Sixty years later, both have grown all too common, as the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency's new "drug courier profile" makes plain.

Until recently, the state policemen patrolling Interstate 95 between Miami and Maine would not detain a vehicle for suspected drug-running unless they had a specific tip. Then the DEA's computers went to work and determined that any car heading north bearing Florida rental license plates, with luggage placed in the rear seat and a black or Hispanic driver, is very likely indeed to be carrying illegal drugs. The "profile" program was introduced in Richmond, Virginia, in December 1983, and, by last August, there had been 25 arrests. In Richmond and elsewhere, a dent was clearly being made in the flow of coke and grass.

Sadly, Virginia's lawyers have filed about a dozen challenges to the program in state courts, claiming it violates the same Fourteenth Amendment which Mencken's Florida "crackers" so cheerfully abused in 1925. In a bid to salvage the program, cops have begun stopping some whites as well. The problem with that is a huge reduction in the overall success rate, which will make it that much harder to justify the "profile" program in an expected U.S. Supreme Court test.

Beautiful Vestige

The Rockettes of Radio City Music Hall are one of the last white symbols of Zoot City. More than 5,000 Rockettes have danced and kicked 36 abreast since Russell Markert created the troupe 60 years ago. And not one has been black. As recently as 1977, Markert was adament about the need for uniform skin color: "If a girl got suntanned and she was alongside a girl who could not get the sun, it would make her look like a colored girl," he said. In 1982, Violet Holmes, director of the Rockettes, told the New York Times: "The Rockettes are a precision line, and they are supposed to be mirror images on stage. One or two black girls in the line would definitely distract."

But this is 1985, a year when the ancient beast of white uniformity is being tracked to its last redoubts. And the bloodhounds of the New York Times are baying at the Rockettes again. While conceding that a theater casting Gone With the Wind "might" legitimately complain if forced to hire a black Scarlett O'Hara, since, in her case, racial authenticity "may" be significant, the Times's terribly broad-minded skin watch­er has news for the Rockettes: "What struck audiences in the 1920s and 30s as a dazzling display of mechanistic conformity, fraternity and cooperative spirit may now be perceived as a vestige of bigoted times."

Shrinking YAF

Direct-mail begging letters sent out by the Young Americans for Freedom are currently producing less than $2,000 a month, down from the $47,000 a-month "take" in the organization's salad days. The YAF promotes a kind of kosher Reaganism, caring much about Israel, free trade, abortion and anti-communism and caring less about out-of-control immigration, Affirmative Action, forced busing, drugs, AIDS and black crime.

More of a rhetorical than a political group, the YAF had a brief blossoming in the late 1960s and early 70s, when it hitched itself to the Republican reaction to several decades of liberal-minority misrule. But reactions built on words, not deeds, sooner or later fold up in a cloud of obfuscation and wordplay.

In its 25 years the YAF has had a zero effect in mobilizing the nation's youth for any kind of constructive and meaningful politics. The outfit's super-boring magazine, The New Guard, has not been published for six months. William F. Buckley Jr., one of the founding daddies of the group, has not attended a YAF convention in three years. Optimists claim membership is down to about 9,000. Realists say it is way below that figure.
Jewish Whistle-Blowers

Readers of Spotlight have been intrigued in recent months by the revelations of Zionist perfidy offered by one Charles M. Fischbein, who resigned in 1984 as executive director of the Jewish National Fund in a move "dictated by conscience." In one article, Fischbein noted that the spread of AIDS among female prostitutes has seriously cramped the style of Zionist fund-raisers, who formerly relied on sexual "tricks" as one way of coaxing wealthy Jews to part with some of their gelt.

In the Sept. 16 issue, Fischbein finally got to the heart of what's been bugging him about Israel. After years of hustling for the Promised Land, he found that he could not take his adopted son, David, to live there for one year on a kibbutz-like settlement, because the boy is half-Vietnamese and half-black.

Fischbein heatedly told the regional director of the Jewish Agency in Beersheba, "He is as much a Jew as you or me." But it was no go. Though he was "devastated" by the rejection, Fischbein "continued to try to work from within the Zionist system to effect change." Convinced at last that Israel is inherently racist, he now writes for "goum" of the monster called Zionism."

The interesting thing about this is its very close resemblance to the story told by Jack Bernstein, in The Life of an American Jew in Racist, Marxist Israel, a $3 booklet which the Spotlight has promoted assiduously for the past year. Bernstein is chairman of a group called the Association of Pro-American Jews (Box 272, Fairfax, VA 22030). On page 3 of his book one learns that almost upon stepping off the plane in Israel he met and fell in love with an Oriental Jewess named Fawzia Daboul. That led to a marriage and adoption in the United States. Yet their disillusionment with fellow Jews is so great that they don't care where or to whom they tell their bitter tales.

Ecology Lesson

"You can't do just one thing."

The ecologists love to say it, Build an Aswan Dam and the vital alluvial siltation will be withheld from Egypt's cropland. The town fathers of Central Falls (RI) -- population 20,000 -- sent to Medellin, Colombia, for cheap textile workers in the 1960s. Today, Central Falls is the cocaine capital of New England.

Today, one-third of the people in the town -- and more than half the children -- are Colombian mestizos. The mayor is named Carlos A. Silva. The cocaine deals made locally top $100 million annually ($5,000 per resident, Colombian or not), an estimate which one federal drug enforcer calls "very conservative."

Mayor Silva says that Colombians are "getting a bum rap." But in the next breath he admits that almost every block in the old industrial city has a house, a market or a bar where cocaine dealers do business.

Most of the coke comes in cars driven up from Miami. One local character, known as "the Snow man," used to dress in white clothes that are perhaps a tad cheapier. The mill owners live a wee bit richer. But crimes go up, law enforcement costs soar, and the sense of alienation among Central Falls Majority members makes them refugees in their own land. New England dies a little more.

"You can't do just one thing."

One More Forgery

Twenty years ago I published a book about the origins of the Second World War. At the time it was dismissed as wrong-headed and controversial. Now it has become the accepted version for most people. But there still lurks some trouble in the book, particularly the so-called Hossbach Protocol. I asserted that this document was a forgery, an assertion which caused much indignation. Now after many years a Berlin lawyer called Dankwart Kluge has taken another look at the Hossbach Protocol. His conclusions are startling. The Hossbach Protocol never existed in any form. Two documents were submitted to the Nuremberg Tribunal; one was an English translation, markedly longer than the alleged Protocol, the other a microfilm copy of a microfilm. However, the Tribunal accepted these documents. They were held to prove that Hitler was planning an aggressive war. On the strength of them Goering was condemned to death, and only escaped the hangman by taking poison. No evidence that Hitler planned aggressive war has ever been produced. Hossbach, who is alleged to have compiled the so-called protocol, was from the first an associate of the German generals who opposed Hitler's policy or tried to.

The revision upset the entire verdict of the Nuremberg Tribunal, which is still solemnly quoted as justification of the Allied war against Germany.

A.J.P. Taylor, An Old Man's Diary
(Hamish Hamilton, London, 1984)

Philly Snafu

Although the original estimate for rebuilding that bombed-out Philadelphia neighborhood was $110,500 per house, the costs have already shot up 35% before the work is half finished. The black developer, Ernest A. Edward Jr., who won the contract, was not too well qualified for the job, since he had previously gone through two bankruptcies. He has now been arrested on charges of forgery and theft by a former partner in his Ebony Construction Co.

Sixty-one homes were torched after a police helicopter dropped a concussion bomb on the headquarters of MOVE, a back-to-the-jungle black commune. Eleven people were killed, including four kids.
Some 270 blacks who have lost their homes have been living high on the hog at city expense in International City, an apartment and townhouse complex near the airport. Their present handsomely furnished digs boast wall-to-wall carpets and air-conditioning. Each suite has its own courtyard. The displaced homeowners have already gone to court to secure the right to refuse to accept their new homes if the finished products don't live up to the luxurious specs to which they have become accustomed.

Deperate Alliance

This has been a year of triumph for Louis Farrakhan. In February alone, the Muslim minister drew crowds of 6,000 in Detroit, 7,000 in Atlanta, 7,000 in Philadelphia and 5,000 in Houston. On the first weekend in March, 15,000 followers packed an armory in South Side Chicago. Additional throngs were turned away in each instance.

What was the man's message? "The American people are sick and tired of the President giving, giving, giving their [money] away . . . to the poor and minorities . . . Blacks have become an intolerable burden on society." So he stated, in a recent interview with the Washington Post, in which he praised Lincoln and Reagan for trying to solve the "core" American problem, which is "what to do with 30 to 40 million black people, most of whom are not productive." Farrakhan's answer is POWER, or People Organized to Work for Economic Rebirth, an apartheid-type program which would have black people working for other blacks and buying only black products. Libyan leader Col. Muammar Gaddafi has loaned Farrakhan $5 million interest-free to get the program off the ground.

One of Farrakhan's best performances took place on July 22 in Washington, D.C., when nearly 15,000 black folk and 10 to 15 intrepid young whites -- every one of them an Instaurationist or quasi-instuurationist -- packed the new Washington Convention Center to hear the great separatist speak. Though the Washington Post would later claim that "Farrakhan directed most of his vehemence against Jews," attending non-blacks estimated that the number of rhetorical swipes at whitey and yiddin ran closer to 50-50. Whites sat on their hands and assumed neutral expressions during the former outbursts, and clapped politely during the latter.

The Post also reported, "Farrakhan opposed the changes of the mainstream 'Nation of Islam' in religion and policy, particularly the practice of working with whites to solve problems." This may be the official line; the reality is that some of Farrakhan's top lieutenants have been meeting amicably with the white separatist crowd for some time now, and Farrakhan approves of the practice. He does not hate white people any more than an Instaurationist hates black people. What he does hate is racial intermarriage and social mixing, and all the other degeneracy being spewed into black homes via the Jewish-skewed media.

Farrakhan launched his Washington address with a broadside that repeated a notorious line from his days as a Jesse Jackson booster:

"Jews know their wickedness -- not just Zionism, which is an outgrowth of Jewish transgression. I intend to raise the ante tonight! Black people will not be controlled by Jews. Black leaders will either come out for us, or get the hell away from us. Who is your master -- God or Jewish leaders?"

The audience consisted of blacks from all walks of life. Everyone was thoroughly frisked upon entering by one of hundreds of sharply dressed Black Muslim volunteers. No hatred was directed against the white brothers and sisters, most of whom sat barely 100 feet from the stage. But whites outside the hall were not spared: "It is an act of mercy to white people that we end your world. Your world is killing you and all of humanity."

On a recent visit to West Germany, Farrakhan stated, apropos of Hitler: "Yes, this man fascinates me. In my youth I saw all the Hitler films." Though obviously not relishing Nazi Herrenrassismus, he gamely added, "I see certain basic principles that are generally valid in his achievements in building up Germany."

As Sa trop's comments in August made clear, the rise of Farrakhan can hardly be seen as more than one small part of the solution to America's titanic race problem. Still, the minister of Islam represents a spreading feeling in black America that the Jew, rather than the "redneck," is now the main obstacle to Negro progress. This assessment leaves commentators like Richard Cohen sputtering. It means that the time is coming out for us, or get the hell away from us, or get the hell away from us, or get the hell away from us.

Michigan Madhouse

Marquette is one of America's ugliest prisons. Three-quarters of the 5,200 inmates are inner-city blacks, while most of the guards are whites from Scandinavian communities in Michigan's upper peninsula. A few months ago one white guard was slashed by a razor-wielding black -- 17 stitches in his face. Before that another guard was slashed two times with the razor of another inmate, who also cut a guard lieutenant who was coming to the rescue. And guards are not the only ones being assaulted -- doctors, nurses, teachers and hearings officers are attacked regularly. Female prison employees have been raped. When guards try to discipline unruly inmates, the action is video-taped to protect them against future lawsuits by the prisoners. A common inmate trick is to throw feces and cups of urine in the guards' faces.

The Northwest Baltimore Problem

Baltimore is a city with a strong Jewish flavoring, just as Maryland is among the most Jewish of states. The Jewish Connection here has been in the news again recently, following the disclosures of dastardly doings at and around Old Court Savings and Loan by Jeffrey Levitt, Allen Pearlstein, Jerome Cardin, Gary Huddles, Gerald Kline and other strictly kosher figures. Kingpin Levitt has been charged with approving millions of dollars of worthless loans to businesses in which he had an interest, thereby triggering the near-collapse of 100 savings and loan institutions statewide. Today, as a direct result of Levitt's flamboyant act that one employee, who returned unexpectedly to the plant one night, saw several other employees loading a truck with nuclear materials. Suspicious because nothing was ever shipped at night, he made his feelings known and was quickly ordered off the loading dock by an armed guard. The next day he was threatened with dismissal if he "didn't keep his mouth shut."

Shapiro, who also happened to be a half-owner of an Israeli-based company which made nuclear equipment, has always denied any complicity in the affair.

More nuclear hanky-panky by the Israelis was revealed recently when it was discovered that in 1983 Israel bought 47 tons of uranium from a Luxembourg metals company. Since the proper European authorities were not notified, Fabio Colesanti, a spokesman for the European Economic Community, pointed out this was the first violation of international agreements regulating the transfer of nuclear materials since the signing of the 1968 nuclear non-proliferation pact.

Nuclear Heist Follow-Up

It's as plain as day that the 752 pounds of uranium (enough to make 38 Hiroshima-style A-bombs) missing from the Nuclear Materials and Equipment Co. went to Israel, yet Zalman Shapiro, the president of the firm when the heists were taking place, has never spent a day in jail -- never even been charged with a crime. Papers recently released under the Freedom of Information Act tell that one employee, who returned unexpectedly to the plant one night, saw several other employees loading a truck with nuclear materials. Suspicious because nothing was ever shipped at night, he made his feelings known and was quickly ordered off the loading dock by an armed guard. The next day he was threatened with dismissal if he "didn't keep his mouth shut."

Shapiro, who also happened to be a half-owner of an Israeli-based company which made nuclear equipment, has always denied any complicity in the affair.

More nuclear hanky-panky by the Israelis was revealed recently when it was discovered that in 1983 Israel bought 47 tons of uranium from a Luxembourg metals company. Since the proper European authorities were not notified, Fabio Colesanti, a spokesman for the European Economic Community, pointed out this was the first violation of international agreements regulating the transfer of nuclear materials since the signing of the 1968 nuclear non-proliferation pact.

Michigan Madhouse

Marquette is one of America's ugliest prisons. Three-quarters of the 5,200 inmates are inner-city blacks, while most of the guards are whites from Scandinavian communities in Michigan's upper peninsula. A few months ago one white guard was slashed by a razor-wielding black -- 17 stitches in his face. Before that another guard was slashed two times with the razor of another inmate, who also cut a guard lieutenant who was coming to the rescue. And guards are not the only ones being assaulted -- doctors, nurses, teachers and hearings officers are attacked regularly. Female prison employees have been raped. When guards try to discipline unruly inmates, the action is video-taped to protect them against future lawsuits by the prisoners. A common inmate trick is to throw feces and cups of urine in the guards' faces.

The Northwest Baltimore Problem

Baltimore is a city with a strong Jewish flavoring, just as Maryland is among the most Jewish of states. The Jewish Connection here has been in the news again recently, following the disclosures of dastardly doings at and around Old Court Savings and Loan by Jeffrey Levitt, Allen Pearlstein, Jerome Cardin, Gary Huddles, Gerald Kline and other strictly kosher figures. Kingpin Levitt has been charged with approving millions of dollars of worthless loans to businesses in which he had an interest, thereby triggering the near-collapse of 100 savings and loan institutions statewide. Today, as a direct result of Levitt's flamboyant ways, tens of thousands of overwhelmingly Gentile Marylanders cannot touch more than a fraction of their life savings, by order of Governor Harold Hughes.

One result, according to columnist Frank DeFilippo of the Gaithersburg, MD, Gazette (Aug. 28), has been the spread of a new code word for Jews: the “Northwest Baltimore Problem” (named for the affluent part of town they occupy). Adds DeFilippo, “Jew-bashing is the new national pastime.” He cites as evidence a Klan rally in rural Maryland last summer which drew all of 200 people!

The truth is that Jews remain Maryland’s pampered darlings. Governor Hughes recently turned over $200,000 in state funds to a semi-private agency called the National Institute Against Prejudice and Violence. The not-so-hidden agenda of this outfit -- and others in the area like the Coalition Opposed to Violence and Extremism -- is to create an explicitly dual legal system in this country.

Already, legislators at both the state and county level in Maryland are pondering new laws which will separate “racially motivated violence” from all other forms of assault, with the former to be punished far more severely. If that sounds like a godsend for blacks or Asians (black-on-white muggings being obviously “non-racial” in character), it isn’t. The “official” statistics show that 75% of all “racial violence” in populous Montgomery County, Maryland, is directed against Jews, who are (supposedly) only 15% of the county population. Clearly, say the legal dualists, those who attack Jews -- even verbally -- should be dealt with much more harshly than those who choose to do their slashing, hacking and gouging at the expense of ordinary whites.

Another Invisible Giant

Just as vanishingly few Americans know anything about Majority electronics wizards Jack Kilby and Robert Noyce (Instauration, Aug. 1985), so have even fewer ever heard of John Franklin Enders, the Majority genius who helped save the world from polio, who died at 88 in Connecticut on Sept. 9.

The word “polio” triggers in every American mind the names Jonas Salk and Albert Sabin, just as the word “genius” calls forth Einstein. But it was Enders who made possible the two Jewish celebrity-scientists’ discoveries of polio vaccine, just as it was the unsung Irish physicist, C.F. Fitzgerald, and the unsung Dutch physicist, Hendrik Lorentz, who paved the way for Einstein.

Enders, co-winner of the 1954 Nobel Prize in medicine, helped Drs. Thomas H. Weller and Frederick C. Robbins discover that poliomyelitis can grow in cultures of different tissues. Thus, a pure virus can be produced in great quantities with a culture of monkey kidneys.

This was the key breakthrough needed to develop usable polio vaccines. And Enders didn’t “get lucky.” A 1961 Time article described him as “one of the deepest thinkers in virology.” He represented that unique Western combination of experimental science and long-term deductions and intuitions that produce breakthrough after breakthrough.

Was Enders the intuitive “guide,” the “bypass” who launched Jonas Salk on a lifetime of inspired interviews with Parade and People! Whatever the case, Enders’ own multiple interests -- he nearly earned a doctorate in English at Harvard in the 1920s -- failed to make his a marketable commodity in the Genius Business.

Selective Murder

Time (Sept. 16, 1985) tried to make a federal case out of the fact that 6,000 or 40% of the 1981 murder victims in the U.S. were blacks killed by blacks. “Only 5% of the nation’s 11,300 one-on-one slayings in 1983 involved whites killed by blacks.” Apparently 11,300 x .05 or 565 whites killed by blacks in one year is considered an acceptable, even a comforting figure by minority-fixed Time.

As usual, when reporting murder and rape statistics, Time followed the standard media practice of omitting the number of blacks killed by whites. These figures are so low they never get published. If they did, they would reveal for all to see and ponder the selective nature of murder in this country. As Instauration (May 1984) reported, whites are being assaulted by blacks at a rate 7 or 8 times higher than whites assault blacks.

Tax Breaks for Jews

Not content with free trade deals, low-interest Israeli bonds (now being investigated by the IRS as a tax-dodging ploy) and many other overgenerous perks and tax-deductible schemes, Jews have come up with a new way to discommodate the U.S. Treasury. There are no estate or inheritance taxes in Israel. Since by Israeli law every Jew in the world can become an Israeli citizen, a rich American Jew can move to Israel before he dies, transfer all his assets there, and his estate won’t have to pay a cent in inheritance taxes. The IRS has a rule that expatriates have to emigrate 10 years before their death to escape the big inheritance tax bite, but somehow this rule has never been implemented -- not once. Even better for Jews and even worse for us, after the “new” Israeli citizen dies, his American heirs can get the “repatriated” assets tax free.

If any Majority member begins to smell a conspiracy, who is to gainsay him? Consider that there is no tax treaty with Israel which would make it easy to identify the perpetrators of any such tax shenanigans. Somehow the one drafted in 1975 never got signed.

Señor Jacobson

A millionaire clothing magnate named Leo Jacobson won an $80 million garment contract from the Army on the basis he was an Hispanic and therefore his company qualified under Affirmative Action quotas as a business owned by a “socially, economically disadvantaged” person. Jacobson, who makes duffel bags and 75% of all the shrapnel vests for the Army, happened to be born in Argentina, which in the eyes of the bumbling federal bureaucracy makes him an Hispanic and allows him to win non-competitive-bidding contracts and receive government money and favors at the expense of the Majority.

Trying to explain away his good fortune, Jacobson says, “I have a couple of strikes against me . . . . I am not only an Hispanic, I’m Jewish. The only thing missing is to be black and I would have had them all.” Actually, in these days, as Jacobson’s bulging wallet must remind him, all these so-called strikes are financial homereums. Jacobson’s $80 million contract was part of the $2.4 billion a year the Small Business Administration awards to minority companies. In Jacobson’s case, in addition to the $80 million contract, the SBA gave his company, Amertex, $1.5 million for “business development expenses.”

The truth is that many minority-owned companies often subcontract their work to non-minority firms, since they are incapable of producing the product they won contracts for. What this voodoo economics really amounts to is that the minority companies simply act as an agent or salesman for a non-minority company and accordingly cut themselves in for a share of the profits. The process, which is not too different from the kickbacks that are normal in the minorities’ homelands, raises the cost of the product and the taxpayer has to pay the difference.

A few years ago the Navy actually promised Jacobson a long-term profit if he would build a shirt factory in Puerto Rico. He did, and the shirt contract he received was taken from an Alabama company, which then had to lay off 255 workers.
FROM THE MAILBAG:

Dear Cholly,

I submit that it is a mistake to try to disprove the Holocaust claim of six million, gas ovens and all the rest. Historical revisionists seem to believe that everything turns on proving the Holocaust to have been a lie, in significant part if not in whole. But proof in human affairs (as distinguished from proof in "science") does not exist in a vacuum. There are always other considerations. Proof exists, for instance, that Churchill helped to orchestrate the sinking of the Lusitania. But humanity as a whole — especially Western humanity — does not wish, in its wholly irrational but comfort-preserving way, to besmirch Churchill, so in a practical sense, the proof "doesn't exist." If, for the sake of argument, irrefutable proof could be produced that most if not all of the Holocaust never occurred, it could still well be that 99.99% of Western humanity wouldn't pay the slightest attention because people don't want to unlearn what they believe. So the "proof" would be worthless. Isn't this really what has happened in the trials in Canada and elsewhere? The net result is that anyone telling the "truth" only ends up in a fight with his own people. Rather than primarily with the Jews, I mean.

If you ask how anything can be changed, then I answer: Only through a bigger idea, or a bigger lie, or a bigger exaggeration. Western history does not show that lies (the Pope has all the answers) were supplantated by truths at the time of the Reformation, but by other lies (Luther has all the answers). If you wish, read ideas for lies.

In this case, the only theoretical way for the 99.99% to surmount the Holocaust is to seduce them with a bigger idea (or lie), which would make the Holocaust irrelevant for them. Note that I say "theoretical." It may be impossible, but the bigger idea is the only way that has a chance. It transcends the "proof" problem, which is probably impossible anyhow no matter how good the proof, and so is not only a dead end but a trap.

My problem is that I don't know what the bigger idea would be. Any suggestions? And what do you think of my argument that "proof" won't work against the Holocaust, and that only a bigger idea could work, by displacing it (the Holocaust) rather than trying to disprove it?

Exhausted by Thinking

Dear Exhauster,

I think you are quite right in your assumption that only a bigger (or more attractive) idea/lie can overcome an existing idea/lie. I would question, however, your next assumption that the bigger idea/lie can be invented and imposed. Luther and Henry VIII and the rest of the stars of the Reformation did not plot their bigger ideas/lies and rush out to impose them on northern Europe. You said that proof in human affairs does not exist in a vacuum — does anything in human affairs exist in a vacuum? Did not Luther, Henry et al. respond to events rather than seek to create them?

As Caroline Plimpton has said, in her unpublished book on the Kennedys (While America Slept): "We get what we ask for. In 1960, we wanted false vitality, and we got false vitality. Just as, in the early 1500s, Europe wanted a religion which would be favorable to science and capitalism (the post-feudal, relatively 'open' society), and that's what Europe got. Moving right along, in 1985 we want what we've got, or we wouldn't have it. And there are no signs that we want a change."

If Caroline is right (and as her friend Amanda Livingston says indulgently, "Out of the mouths of socialites often comes wisdom, even if coated in fuzziness and illiteracy"), there cannot be a big, counter-Holocaust idea/lie until there is a demand for it. If Caroline is wrong (and as another of her friends, Maizee Hamilton, says wapsishly, "When was she ever right?") who knows what will happen? Or when?

Sorry I can't be more definite, but it's a hazy field.

Dear Cholly,

Why do you hide behind a pseudonym? Is it because no one can discuss racial issues today on pain of persecutions so dreadful as to be unimaginable? They must be unimaginable because if they were ordinary, you would be brave enough to risk them, as people do in other countries. In Russia, for instance, some people will discuss and even oppose an obviously oppressive regime without resorting to anonymity, even though they know they risk prison and worse. The same is true in Poland, Afghanistan and many other places. From your behavior, I have to believe that only in America are the punishments so awful as to necessitate total anonymity. To enforce such subterfuge, America has clearly out-Heroded Herod, out-Stalined Stalin, and out-Hitlered Hitler. And yet, when I walk American streets, I don't see or sense evidence of this juggernaut of exotic punishment. Nor do I find it in private conversation. Where can I find it?

Any answers, Cholly? What are these unimaginable punishments? Where is the evidence of their existence? It is not enough to say that the JDL assaults those who are "insensitive" to Jewish problems, or that people are hauled into court for questioning the Holocaust. That's too ordinary, too prosaic, certainly not enough to deter you, presumably a descendant of Majority Americans who suffered...
Dear Waiting,

Although a little heavyhanded, your query deserves an answer. I am delighted to come clean and tell you that I am pseudonymous from sheer cowardice. However, I am not so frightened over my own well-being as I am about what I might find out were I not hiding behind a pseudonym. I didn’t appreciate this entirely myself until Sutter Lang explained it to me: “If there were any appetite for non-anonymous resistance to minority racism in the United States, it would have surfaced by now in big numbers,” he told me recently. “If you with your nom de plume have proved anything, you’ve helped to show that no such appetite exists. The great majority of the Majority is entirely indifferent to being taken over. If you come out from behind your pseudonym, you’d find this out. But you’re afraid to find it out, so you have to remain pseudonymous.”

I assume that you, Waiting in Zipcodeland, understand this and that your understanding lies behind your sardonic question about punishments so awful they can’t be mentioned. No such punishments exist, as you perfectly well know. What does exist is something which may well be worse than any such punishment — the total indifference of the great majority. I imagine that is what I can’t face.

Incidentally, this indifference is quite specifically centered on what must be the final argument in any resistance: posterity. Your “Majority Americans who suffered … in wars and causes to which they joyously and publicly committed themselves” did so more for their descendants than for themselves. Posterity has been the main reason for human resistance to tyranny through history: it is the threat to posterity which triggers the resistance.

But that has not happened in the United States, nor in Western Europe. As Jenny Burden says: “If you sit down calmly with the average person of North European descent and discuss the future, especially the racial future, you will find that he already envisions his descendants as nonwhite. ‘It’s going to be a different world,’ he says complacently. If you attempt to convince him that this is not desirable, you will come a cropper; his mind is made up. And once he trumps your best card in this way, the discussion is over. There is no way you can alarm him, worry him, open his eyes, educate him. He has already thought the matter through and made up his mind. The case is closed. And once you realize that, about all you can do is try to find amusing ways to pass the time.”

Rather surprising to find such stoicism in a 29-year-old socialite who flunked out of finishing school, but perhaps she’s a late bloomer.

Dear Cholly,

Once you were such a pleasure to read. You were serious and gave me what I wanted to hear, including Sutter Lang stories. But for some time, or at least until a few months ago, you have been writing an ersatz gossip column which is supposed to be funny and isn’t. Go back to what you used to be, please, or I won’t read you any more.

Disappointed

Dear Disappointed,

What can I say? For starters, remember that Cholly, the first half of my pen name, was first used by Cholly Knickerbocker, the famous gossip columnist. If I am to be Cholly, I have to be a gossip columnist. Or should be, at least.

More seriously, readers are not always the best judges of what they should read. In my modest way, I am not trying to bolster preconceptions, but to expand understandings. None of us is really capable of defining his true needs; we must all go to school in some sense before we can begin to think. As a rough rule of thumb, the function of a columnist is not to reinforce preconceptions, but to break new ground. And because readers want reinforcement and don’t want new ground broken, they invariably complain. In another rough rule of thumb, the columnist knows he is failing if he receives nothing but praise, and knows he is succeeding, however slightly, if he is criticized.

As Andrea Sedgwick says, “Show-and-tell is what America is all about, and people only want to hear or read what can be used as support for their own ideas. If you’re a liberal, you read a liberal magazine that tells you what you want to hear. If you’re a conservative, ditto. If you’re a racist, ditto. The funny thing is that they all think they’re so different, but they’re all alike in their Americaness — that is, only wanting to hear what fits their picture.”

At any rate, I hate to disappoint you further, Disappointed, but I have to believe that disappointment may be better for you than pleasure.

Ponderable Quote

Urging his staff on with the remark that the President was now “hungry for this stuff,” Morgenthau came up with increasingly bizarre suggestions for making the Germans suffer. Expanding on an idea he had appropriated from Stimson, at one point he thought it would be a good idea if “this whole SS group was deported to some other part of the world . . . because you can’t keep them in concentration camps forever.” By 4 September, a Treasury conference was seriously pondering what to do with children of SS men who happened to be under the age of six, since Morgenthau and his aides had already decided that the older children should suffer the same penalties of confinement and probable punishment that were in store for their parents.

Bradley F. Smith,
The Road to Nuremberg, p. 28
Notes from the Sceptred Isle - John Nobull

The third and last book I wish to review in connexion with Mosley and the Mitfords is Jonathan Guinness's The House of Mitford (London: Hutchinson, 1984). The author's prose demonstrates that one can acquire an excellent education at Eton if one makes the effort. Jonathan understands, for instance, that the basic unit of English prose is the paragraph, in which an idea is developed. Even the most brilliant sentence may have to be dovetailed, or even sacrificed, to fit in with the rest of the paragraph. His references to Russian and German literature (which he read at Oxford) also attest to an educated mind.

The whole trend of Jonathan's thinking is independent -- and therefore to the right. This has drawn the adverse judgments of the critics, one of whom found the book "rather sinister." They were probably particularly unhappy with Jonathan's quoting Bertie (pronounced Bartie) First Lord Redesdale (of the second creation) on the Poles in 1863, implying that the same has been true in modern times: "The Poles were past masters in the art of exciting dramatic emotion and surrounding base crimes with a political halo" (p. 43). I immediately thought of Cardinal Clemmp's disgusting hypocrisy when he delivered a sermon in Stettin, in June 1985, adjuring the Poles to "forgive" the Germans whom they had totally dispossessed. He was "opening" a Catholic church, although almost all the Germans driven out had been Protestants.

Elsewhere, Jonathan refers to the vividly described atrocity in Hemingway's For Whom the Bell Tolls, "in which the village revolutionaries force the leading figures to jump off a cliff; in many places similar things had happened, and the Franco forces contained many exaggerated relations of the victims, bent on revenge" (pp. 309-10).

Unfortunately, the book is marred by a sort of high-church Holocaustianity, as Jonathan genuflects to the great shibboleth of our time. The reader will doubtless recall how the Amalekites pronounced that word wrong (as 'sibboleth') and were slain unto the number of forty thousand. Well, Jonathan strives to get it right, while at the same time defending the memory of individuals who didn't try quite so hard. The effect is of an extended passage in Mein Kampf where Hitler argues in favour of extreme punishment of the Jews, despite the fact that when his father's friend, Lord Moyne, was murdered by the Stern Gang during the war because he was an obstacle to Zionism, or that he himself was once discovered by the press to be harbouring Hitler's adjutant. Hobnobbing with degenerate junkies is considered perfectly respectable; socializing with Nazis is not.

The Mitfords, an old Northumberland family of landed gentry, are interesting people to write about. John Ashburnham, an ancestor who attended Charles I at his execution, secured one of the two shirts the king then wore "so that the spectators would not see him shivering in the January cold and think he was afraid" (p. 25). In the eighteenth century one William Mitford was persuaded by Gibbon to write a History of Greece in many volumes which gave due credit to the Spartan tradition and was admired by Carlyle. William's brother John was Lord Chancellor of Ireland and the first to bear the title of Baron Redesdale. The position is complicated by the fact that when William's great-grandson, Algernon Bertram Mitford was raised to the peerage in 1902, he also took the title of Redesdale.

Bertie was made Secretary of the Board of Works by Disraeli, restored Hampton Court and the Tower of London (where his ancestor Ashburnham spent the entire Commonwealth period), and remodelled Hyde Park. It is worth remarking that a minority member like Disraeli could then only find a way forward by serving, or at least appearing to serve. Majority interests. The same can be said of the influential conservative Geheimer Rat Friedrich Julius Stahl in Prussia, the "ex-Jew" who was supported by Bismarck. Bertie may have been beholden to Disraeli, but he remained very much his own person. He was an excellent linguist, educated in the classics and fluent in German, French, Russian, Chinese and Japanese. His varied diplomatic career is above all remembered for his Tales of Old Japan -- unforgettable reminiscences of the Tokugawa Shogunate. As Jonathan says of him: "He recognised that an upper class needed to have a purpose; that to have a right to its position, it needed to perform certain social duties and exhibit certain virtues, notably that of courage, which he certainly possessed himself" (p. 16). He was a great admirer of Wagner, and suggested the second name Valkyrie for his newly-born granddaughter Unity. He also wrote an introduction to the English translation of Houston Stewart Chamberlain's Foundations of the Nineteenth Century, but when World War I came he was as patriotic as anybody, writing in his memoirs about "the coarse-fibred soul of the German" (p. 116).

Bertie's best friend and parliamentary ally was an even more interesting figure: Thomas Gibson Bowles. They were both elected as Conservative MPs in 1892, and together opposed the Liberal innovation of estate duty, which hit the landed gentry hard, because it cut into their capital, not just their earnings. If it had been imposed on liquid capital, it would have been called by its proper name: progressive confiscation. Jonathan rightly sees in Bowles a representative of the Roundhead tradition, in contrast to Bertie's strictly Cavalier attitudes. In the English gentleman, pride of family and traditional loyalty were sometimes outshone by an independence of mind which derived from the Puritan's inner light. As Jonathan puts it, we find in Bowles, "[S]omething we shall meet again in his children and some of his grandchildren; namely an independence of received ideas springing from a wish to think things out anew from first principles" (p. 130). Is not the Yankee tradition identical? Thomas's father, Thomas Milner-Gibson, was a Suffolk landowner, a nineteenth-century Liberal and free-thinker. In 1844, he brought home with him a little tow-headed boy who was given his father's names of Thomas and Gibson, together with the surname Bowles, which was presumably his mother's. His extreme fairness, common in East Anglia, where the name Bowles is also found, together with the boy's later affection for the seafaring folk out of his native county, indicate that his mother was a local girl. Mrs. Milner-Gibson already had children, but she was kind to the new child, telling visitors in clear English: "This is Tom Bowles. Be civil to him or leave the house" (p. 124). I hope it will not be considered irrelevant if I recall a moving passage in Mein Kampf where Hitler argues in favour of adoption (though not of Peruvians or Filipinos). It was in favour of Hitler that some of Thomas Bowles's descendants were to exercise their independence of judgment.

Bowles was extremely active and fit, taking part in a whole range of sports, and especially in love with the sea in all its moods. Because of his illegitimacy, he was sent to school in northern France, and excellent French was something he was to share with Bertie. Later, as a correspondent for the Morning Post, he was to cover the Franco-Prussian war from the French angle, and was once mistaken by a beggar-boy for a Prussian, on account of his fairness. He was an influential journalist, owning and editing both Vanity Fair and The Lady, and the friend of such noteworthy persons as Charles Lutwidge Dodgson (Lewis Carroll) and Francis Burnaby of the Blues -- that tall splendid fellow who had so many adventures and was killed at the Sudan when he stepped out of the square to help a wounded soldier.

In his private life, Bowles was something of a Pelagian, as Jonathan remarks. Pelagius (original name Morgan, for he was a Briton) was the bète noire of St. Augustine of Hippo because he believed in elevation through good works rather than through grace. The attitude of Bowles's descendants was generally Pelagian, involving "an aversion to that sense of sin, first formulated by the Hebrew prophets, which Christianity enjoins for everyone, and socialism prescribes for the well-to-do" (p. 132).

As an MP, Bowles championed the Royal Navy and the North Sea fishermen. He was himself a qualified master mariner, and took his family on extended sea voyages, on one of which his ship, the Nereid, weathered a great storm in the eastern Mediterranean, when the Navy itself would not put to sea. His experience of Jerusalem was probably responsible for his backhander that "no religion is wholly bad." Describing the Wailing Wall as a "touching sight," he goes on to say that he does not see what the Jews have got to wail about: "For one thing they did not found Jerusalem, and only ruled it for five hundred of its three thousand years of history." They were now much better off as "the rulers of London, Paris and Berlin" (p. 171). He adds: "There is, I suppose, no human animal more utterly devoid of all dignity and nobility, none that bears an aspect at once so abject and so dangerous as the lower class of Russian Jews who have recently overrun the Holy City." He speaks of their "pale, womanly faces, rendered loathsome by a long, greasy curled lock in front of each ear; their narrow shoulders, bent carriage, filthy gabardines, and furtive glances." Jonathan valiantly tries to exorcise any suspicion of anti-Semitism on Bowles's part: "All that happened was that he once mistook for a Prussian, on account of his fairness. He was an influential journalist, owning and editing both Vanity Fair and The Lady, and the friend of such noteworthy persons as Charles Lutwidge Dodgson (Lewis Carroll) and Francis Burnaby of the Blues -- that tall splendid fellow who had so many adventures and was killed at the Sudan when he stepped out of the square to help a wounded soldier.

In his private life, Bowles was something of a Pelagian, as Jonathan remarks. Pelagius (original name Morgan, for he was a Briton) was the bète noire of St. Augustine of Hippo because he believed in elevation through good works rather than through grace. The attitude of Bowles's descendants was generally Pelagian, involving "an aversion to that sense of sin, first formulated by the Hebrew prophets, which Christianity enjoins for everyone, and socialism prescribes for the well-to-do" (p. 132).

As an MP, Bowles championed the Royal Navy and the North Sea fishermen. He was himself a qualified master mariner, and took his family on extended sea voyages, on one of which his ship, the Nereid, weathered a great storm in the eastern Mediterranean, when the Navy itself would not put to sea. His experience of Jerusalem was probably responsible for his backhander that "no religion is wholly bad." Describing the Wailing Wall as a "touching sight," he goes on to say that he does not see what the Jews have got to wail about: "For one thing they did not found Jerusalem, and only ruled it for five hundred of its three thousand years of history." They were now much better off as "the rulers of London, Paris and Berlin" (p. 171). He adds: "There is, I suppose, no human animal more utterly devoid of all dignity and nobility, none that bears an aspect at once so abject and so dangerous as the lower class of Russian Jews who have recently overrun the Holy City." He speaks of their "pale, womanly faces, rendered loathsome by a long, greasy curled lock in front of each ear; their narrow shoulders, bent carriage, filthy gabardines, and furtive glances." Jonathan valiantly tries to exorcise any suspicion of anti-Semitism on Bowles's part: "All that happened was that he once mistook for a Prussian, on account of his fairness. He was an influential journalist, owning and editing both Vanity Fair and The Lady, and the friend of such noteworthy persons as Charles Lutwidge Dodgson (Lewis Carroll) and Francis Burnaby of the Blues -- that tall splendid fellow who had so many adventures and was killed at the Sudan when he stepped out of the square to help a wounded soldier.
follower of his, nevertheless.

She disapproved of Hitler’s invasion of the Czech parts of Bohemia (the Munich agreement having covered only the Sudetenland) and I agree with Jonathan that this was a turning point. The German troops marching into the Saar or the Sudetenland were seen by every fair-minded person as merely righting a wrong. But the invasion of the Czech heartland showed that Hitler had designs on Slav territories too. The trouble was that Prague was historically a German city, as the names in its Cathedral inscriptions testify. Its university was the oldest in German-speaking Europe, and the purest German used to be spoken there. But despite her disapproval Sydney felt that England had no vital interests in Central Europe. When war came, Jonathan sums up her attitude as follows: “To her the war had been the end of Britain’s only hope to avoid decline; Churchill was no saviour of his country, but rather, despite himself, the blind instrument of its destruction” (p. 445). In 1947, she and her husband David attended the wedding of Churchill’s daughter Mary to the gross vulgarian Christopher Soames (later to supervise the sellout in Rhodesia). Bertie’s wife Clementine happened to be the aunt of the Clementine whom Churchill married and with whom he “lived happily ever after.” David was thus Clementine Churchill’s first cousin.

Sydney later went to visit her daughter Decca in America, and got on surprisingly well with her second husband, Robert Treuhaft, a Jewish-American left-wing lawyer. None of this made any difference to her staunch support of Oswald Mosley. Nor did it affect her admiration for Adolf Hitler. Long after his death, when she had the opportunity to listen to any recordings from the BBC sound archives she pleased, she elected to listen to his speeches, though she knew scarcely a word of German (p. 440).

All this got on the nerves of her husband David, a very different kind of person. Perhaps the key to his character lies in his having been sent by his father to Radley so as not to get in the way of his elder brother Clement (killed in the first world war), who was sent to Eton. Radley is a lesser public school, with few intellectual pretensions and a strong emphasis on games. David far preferred the traditional sports of the gentry; hunting, shooting and fishing. Hence his mongoose, with which he used to hunt rats when acting as office manager of The Lady. Despite his famous rages, so well described by his daughter Nancy, he was extremely sensitive, and the damage done to his self-image by being sent to Radley (a perfectly good school for a more average kind of boy) may never have been repaired. Certainly, it was the key to Owen Lattimore’s character. Although an American, he was sent to a lesser public school called St. Bee’s, in Cumberland, and never recovered from the resulting damage to his self-esteem. People must think well of themselves if they are to stand out against received opinion.

Actually, David collaborated in Nancy’s myth of his fearlessness as “Uncle Matthew” — perhaps in compensation for being surrounded by so many clever families. No doubt he felt that the only alternative was to become gently ineffectual like Mr. Bennett in Pride and Prejudice. Also, his meticulousness over such details as the tidiness of young men’s hair (though they were never to carry combs) or over minor details of table manners were probably signs of displacement activity in concealing a feeling of slight inadequacy.

Physically, David was brave, the very type of the volunteer. In the Boer War, in which his brother Clement also fought and his uncle the eighth Earl of Arlie, died leading a cavalry charge, David served in the ranks and was wounded in the calf and chest, losing a lung. In the first world war he served as a dispatch rider and was mentioned in dispatches too, though he was unfit for the front line. The artist Helleu saw him in Paris in uniform and remarked, “Only the eyes are not khaki.” They were indeed the famous Mitford blue. In between times, he tried to make his fortune, tea-planting in Ceylon or gold-mining at a place called Swastika in northern Ontario, where Unity was conceived.

David’s view of the Germans was standard for his time: “The Hun was barbarous, untrustworthy, afraid of cold steel, and always at your throat or at your feet” (p. 266). Jonathan comments that David, “like most of those who are utterly honest, believed everything he was told; he was always to be a sucker for propaganda and fell for that of Lord Northcliffe just as he was later, temporarily, to fall for that of Goebbels” (p. 266). But the equation is not exact. One would expect David to believe British publications, not German ones. He thoroughly disapproved, at least initially, of Unity’s and Diana’s Nazi proclivities. So there must have been special reasons for his willingness to “believe Goebels.” The fact is that he was impressed, in spite of himself, by the astonishing idealism and economic success of the German people under Nazism. Moreover, when Unity took him to lunch with Hitler, he was captivated, as most people were. Unity wrote to Diana: “Farve really does adore him in the same way as we do, and treasures every word and expression” (p. 417).

When the second world war came, David switched round, just like his father in the first, and wrote to the papers about German shortcomings. Poor man, he did not see what the war meant for England. At the end of it he voted in the Lords against American lend-lease, “not realising that the expense of the war had made Britain in any case dependent on United States bounty” (p. 444). In a happier age, his knee-jerk patriotism would have gained him respect, even admiration. In ours, he comes over as a muddled romantic.

The war made a breach between David and Sydney which Unity’s attempted suicide only superficially affected. They lived very much apart in the same house for a while. Then David removed himself, spending half the year in London and the other half at Inchkenneth, an island in the Hebrides which he had bought in 1938. In 1944, the “security” restrictions which had prevented Sydney from going to Inchkenneth were lifted, and she went up there with Unity, while David went to stay at Redesdale Cottage in Northumberland. It was at Inchkenneth that Unity contracted meningitis from her old bullet wound and died in 1948. Sydney defiantly had the words, “Say not the struggle naught availeth” put on her tomb. The quotation is from a poem by Arthur Hugh Clough cited in a wartime speech by Churchill. It was to be read out again at Mosley’s funeral.

Sydney went on living at Inchkenneth, and died there in 1963, making “a small paradise” of the island, which she shared with a number of animals, including three goats and a dangerous bull, of which she had no fear whatsoever. As Jonathan writes: “Her last years were sunny, surrounded by affection. Her descendants clustered round her, not just from duty but because she was lovable and original. She retained, to the end of her life, Thomas Bowles’s freedom from received ideas, his ability to think everything through from first principles” (p. 445-6). Once her daughter Diana said to her sons Alexander and Max, “I hope you boys don’t annoy Muv [Sydney] with your fighting,” and Alexander replied: “I don’t think she minds . . . You see, she’s so lovely and deaf.” Sydney was 83 when she died, and had been reconciled with David just before his death in 1958. Yet she never changed her political opinions (p. 445), an example which her daughter Diana is determined to follow.

One detail about Sydney deserves emphasis. She always loved the old favourite songs sung round the piano, for example those of Tom Moore and Robert Burns. Ability to sing is a sign of mental health; but for most people now it is either embarrassing or impossible. They live vicariously through some vulgar pop star or passively through second-rate opera singers.

(To be continued)
Want to anti-Semitize 230 million Americans? Put Irv Rubin, the head of the Jewish Defense League, on the TV screen in every U.S. home for half an hour. I watched him on Crossfire (CNN, Galaxy 1, Transponder 7, 7:30 p.m. EST) a few weeks ago and his performance was so appalling that Tom Braden, the stand-up apologist for all the Democratic Party's multiple sins, actually showed some sympathy for the Arab American who was also on the program. After exulting over the murder a few days earlier of the head of the Los Angeles branch of the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, Rubin launched into what had to be the most fiercely racist speech ever videoed in the U.S. and possibly elsewhere -- a scrofulous, crapulous verbal blitz against all Palestinians, whom he called a bunch of gangsters, crooks and murderers and more than hinted that their remnant in Israel and the 1.2 million of them on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip should be driven out of their homes, if not exterminated. He ended up by calling the Arab American on the program a “scumbag.”

On another Crossfire segment, Tom Metzger, the West Coast Majority activist, appeared with Julian Bond, the smooth-talking black politico (and likely future Congressman) from Atlanta. The chief topic was the $100 donation of Metzger and some associates to Louis Farrakhan, whom Jews have been touting as a black reincarnation of Hitler. Calmly and rather convincingly, Metzger said he admired any black leader who wanted Negroes to pull their own weight and favored the separation of the races. That was his own program for salvaging the rapidly deteriorating U.S. and he saw no reason not to contribute to a black organization that was moving in the same direction.

Julian Bond was then asked by “Kosher Conservative” Ben Wattenberg, who only a few years ago was a stereotypical left-wing Jewish writer, to denounce Farrakhan. Nimblly fence-straddling, Bond was willing to condemn Farrakhan’s anti-Semitism, but went out of his way to praise his economic efforts on behalf of blacks. This by no means satisfied Wattenberg, who wanted a blanket damnation of Farrakhan, which Bond, well cognizant of the growing support for Farrakhan in the black community, was not about to provide. It was this same qualified praise of Farrakhan by the black mayors of Los Angeles, Washington and Atlanta which has been driving the Jewish establishment up the wall. Jews are so habituated to having white politicians say anything they tell them to say that they feel rebuffed when black pols don’t do likewise. Farrakhan fills the seats of most every convention hall he appears in, including Madison Square Garden, and all the Jews can do is grind their teeth, chew their nails and go to the Wailing Wall.

For the first time in half a century or so in this country, the Jewish master racists are facing some organized racial opposition -- not just a few scattered and isolated anti-Semites, but tens of thousands of race-fixated Negroes, who are not at all fazed by the moanings and groanings of New York Times editorials and Injun Dan. In fact, when the target is Farrakhan, the Times and Rather are simply shooting in the wind. Ghetto blacks and even most middle-class blacks are not intimidated by demands of denunciation from Jewish organizations which would rather send their billions to Israel than to the inner cities. It takes racists to smell out other racists.

---

Cable News Network (Galaxy 1, Transponder 7, Aug. 18, 1985) carried a report by Gloria Hilliard from West Hollywood about how that newly incorporated city abolished Christmas as a legal holiday after a Jewish councilman pushed through a city ordinance making Yom Kippur a statutory day off. He said it deserved “equal status” with Christmas. The city council, after a long debate, decided that “the best way” to please everyone was to abolish both Christmas and Yom Kippur as city holidays.

Miss Hilliard went on to say that West Hollywood is about one-third Jewish. What she didn’t say is that it also has the highest percentage of homosexuals of any U.S. city, including San Francisco (once known as Jonestown-by-the-Bay, now becoming known as AIDSville). Recently West Hollywood was racked by a political power struggle between the newly elected mayor and the previously elected mayor who wouldn’t quit. The former is a lesbian, the latter a faggot.
violent crime rose 1% in the U.S. in 1984. 57% of the murder victims were white. 54% of those arrested for murder were white, 45% black. 84,000 forcible rapes were reported in 1984, an increase of 7%. 53% of the arrestees were white, 46% black. (U.S. Justice Dept. press release, July 28, 1985) As usual, the racial breakdown of rape victims was omitted.

118,000 U.S. blacks have white wives. 46,000 U.S. whites have black wives.

Jesse Helms ($16,244,642) and Jay Rockefeller ($12,044,988) were the two largest spenders in the 1984 senatorial campaigns. Jesse spent other people's money. Jay spent mostly his own. Helms's recent attempt to reduce senators' salaries (now $75,100) by 10% was rejected by a 49 to 49 vote. Rockefeller and Kennedy, each worth tens of millions, voted nay.

$484.7 million worth of Krugerrands were imported into the U.S. in the first 10 months of 1984. In 1983, gold exports from South Africa totaled $9.15 billion, about half of all the country's exports. 424,539 blacks and 48,389 whites dig the gold.

A Library of Congress study says 1 in 8 Americans cannot read books and 1 in 2 is "illiterate" (able but unwilling to read). The present pool of 23 million functionally illiterate people is increasing at the rate of 2.3 million a year. Some 40% of 17-year-olds cannot really savvy written material and only one-fifth can write a comprehensible essay.

Arthur Kurzweil, a Jewish genealogist, claims he lost 101 family members in the Holocaust. He traces his own ancestry back to a rabbi expelled from Spain with all other Jews in 1492 by Ferdinand and Isabella. Kurzweil asserts there are now at least 20 Jewish genealogy societies in the U.S.

London politicians have shelled out £1 million for a Lesbian and Gay Centre, complete with discotheque, theater, two bars and a printing press. No sexists or racists are permitted on the premises. Heterosexuals may use the facility, but only as dues-paying day members. Tea dances are held every Sunday afternoon, and Tuesday is disco night. All 11 full-time employees are certified queers.

Every year in the U.S. each immigrant, legal or illegal, depletes the country's natural resources of 5,200 pounds of coal, 1,000 pounds of iron and steel and 7,650 pounds of petroleum. (U.S. Bureau of Mines, 1978)

18 out of every 100,000 U.S. males in 1980 committed suicide; 5.4 of every 100,000 females. 57% of the 28,869 U.S. suicides in 1980 were accomplished by firearms. Females preferred death by poison. If the age of the self-killers is subtracted from what would have been their normal life span, they cut their lives short by 619,533 years.

Despite the incessant Catholic-Protestant inflighting, Northern Ireland is the safest place to live in the United Kingdom. In 1983, Scotland had 8,703 "notifiable offenses" per 100,000 population; England 6,595; Northern Ireland 4,112.

There were 419 jail suicides in the U.S. in 1979 (New York Times, July 21, 1985, p. 35). How many of these were young white males driven to desperation by being thrown into an animal house of gang-raping blacks was not specified in the Times article.

In 1938, as the invading Japanese armies pushed further into China, Chiang Kai-shek ordered the strategic detonation of a few sticks of dynamite along the Yellow River dikes. Approximately 1 million civilians drowned in the ensuing flood, and 9 to 10 million more starved during the next few years because of massive damage to their croplands. (Whole Earth Review, May 1985)

Simon and Schuster has given Fidel Castro a $2.5 million advance for his "autobiography," now being written by a team of S&S ghostwriters in Havana.

Out of a population of 270,000, 23,753 were killed and 43,020 were injured by the A-bomb dropped on Nagasaki. 78,150 were killed and 51,108 injured and missing -- out of a population of 350,000 -- when the A-bomb blasted Hiroshima. An estimated 118,000 died and 5.5 million Japanese lost their homes in the 1945 bombings of Tokyo, Osaka and Nagoya. (1950 report of Gen. MacArthur's HQ)
Talking Numbers

At the 1984 Republican Convention in San Francisco, TV reporters used such terms as “hard right, right wing, conservative, fundamentalist” and “ultraconservative” at the rate of 1 per 6 minutes. At the Democratic Convention in Dallas the same year, “liberal” and “leftists” were only heard from the same reporters once each hour and “left-wing” and “left-winger” were never mentioned. (“Convention Coverage” by William C. Adams, Public Opinion, Dec/Jan. 1985)

#

2.6 million immigrants from Bangladesh have squatted in the Indian state of Assam since 1971. After 3,000 died in the fight to expel them, the Indian government finally promised to deport the 2.6 million to their homeland or move them to other Indian states. Assam leader Aroop Borodoloi warned that if India should welsh on the agreement, his people would resume their violence.

Primate Watch

South Africa produces plenty of talented poets, but BREYSEN BREYSEN is the one outside world keeps hearing about. Though this son of an Afrikaner farmer is an old profession in broad daylight on Interstate 95, the main traffic artery of Florida’s East Coast. They started out by robbing the drivers of stalled cars (not stagecoaches). Now they are bold enough to assault drivers in slow traffic. Another of their tricks is to bring cars to a sudden halt by throwing heavy objects in the roadway. Having collected their loot, they slink back into the black ghettos, which line both sides of I-95 in north Miami.

NEGRO HIGHWAYMEN are reviving an old profession in broad daylight on Interstate 95, the main traffic artery of Florida’s East Coast. They started out by robbing the drivers of stalled cars (not stagecoaches). Now they are bold enough to assault drivers in slow traffic. Another of their tricks is to bring cars to a sudden halt by throwing heavy objects in the roadway. Having collected their loot, they slink back into the black ghettos, which line both sides of I-95 in north Miami.

A 33-year-old, devoutly Catholic and anti-abortionist white woman, while returning to work in Baltimore after lunch on Sept. 8, 1981, was grabbed by a gun-toting ALEXANDER KALETSKI, a Russian matinee idol who managed to make it to the West with his wife, Lena, did so by inventing a Jewish family tree for himself and his spouse and getting in on the Soviet Jewish emigration when the Kremlin was still issuing thousands of exit visas.

Apropos the recent spy scandal in West Germany, it was one MARCUS WOLF, the former Russian-Jewish head of East Germany’s espionage service, who dreamed up the idea of having handsome KGB agents recruit lovelorn West German secretaries in a country with a serious shortage of males.

In 1934 the Hitler government sterilized between 180,000 and 200,000 insane, feeble-minded, epileptic or chronic alcoholic Germans.

House Speaker “TIP” O’NEILL took a plane ride on July 19. He flew from Washington National Airport to Hyannis (MA). The carrier was Beech Aircraft Corporation. The fare was zip. When his congressional colleagues got wind of it, they made long faces and wagged their fingers. House conflict-of-interest rules forbid members from accepting gifts of $100 or more from individuals or groups with any legislative interest before Congress. And this was a $200-$250 plane ride. And it came when Beech was trying to sell 24 C-12 aircraft to the Pentagon.

In 1934 the Hitler government sterilized between 180,000 and 200,000 insane, feeble-minded, epileptic or chronic alcoholic Germans.

Free-riding O’Neill

After long service as U.S. Ambassador to Israel, SAMUEL LEWIS, an Episcopalian, retired in May. A few months later he was named Director of the Bank Leumi Trust Co. of New York, the major American subsidiary of Israel’s largest bank.

House Speaker “TIP” O’NEILL took a plane ride on July 19. He flew from Washington National Airport to Hyannis (MA). The carrier was Beech Aircraft Corporation. The fare was zip. When his congressional colleagues got wind of it, they made long faces and wagged their fingers. House conflict-of-interest rules forbid members from accepting gifts of $100 or more from individuals or groups with any legislative interest before Congress. And this was a $200-$250 plane ride. And it came when Beech was trying to sell 24 C-12 aircraft to the Pentagon.

In 1934 the Hitler government sterilized between 180,000 and 200,000 insane, feeble-minded, epileptic or chronic alcoholic Germans.
Canada. The best bargain going in information-which-really-matters may be the "CAFE Quarterly," published by the Canadian Association for Free Expression, Inc. (P.O. Box 332, Rexdale, Ontario M9W 5L3). A $2 check brings the next four issues. The Autumn 1985 number should be specifically requested, and its dire contents spread far and wide among thoughtful North Americans. Never was more godawful news packed succinctly into two pages.

The first mini-story summarized the contents of an article which appeared in the very tony Saskatchewan Law Review (Vol. 40, No. 2), arguing that "hatemongers" like James Keegstra and Ernst Zündel should henceforth be tried in secret. The publicity given to "perverted ideas" must be ended, wrote Alan R. Regal, a Chosenite, whose genes cannot tolerate tolerance.

The second and third stories in the issue described the continuing seizure of books by Customs Canada, at the instigation of parties unnamed. Arthur Koestler's "The Thirteenth Tribe," about the origins of East European Jewry, is among the latest works to be banned in Canada. When David Morgan, a former political science instructor who lives in Summerside, Prince Edward Island, learned that one of his favorite books -- Gary Allen's best-selling "None Dare Call It Conspiracy" -- can no longer be bought or sold in "the true North strong and free," he set about finding the reason why. Six months of inquiries to government ministries and Members of Parliament have produced only the same stonewalling that concerned Canadians everywhere are meeting with these days.

A fourth story told of the September firing from the Victoria Regional Transit Commission of Mary Casilio, the popular alderman of Saanich, British Columbia, who told an interviewer last February that she personally opposes interracial marriage. The Human Resources Minister responsible for the firing had been pressed hard by Jewish organizations, even though the widely circulated "Canadian Jewish News" carried an announcement on Sept. 5 asking Jews: "Concerned with Intermarriage? If you are a concerned parent, relative or friend, it is not too late! Seminars with rational approaches to an emotional issue, preventing intermarriage, will be presented by a trained staff, rabbis and educators. For details, call . . . ."

Finally, "CAFE Quarterly" told of David Smith, a freshman member of the Ontario provincial Parliament who dared to publicly agree with James Keegstra in the latter's opposition to two powerful internationalist think tanks, the Trilateral Commission and the Council on Foreign Relations. Though Smith carefully emphasized that he was not anti-Jewish, he was hauled before Ontario Premier David Peterson and pressured to resign from his important position on a legislative committee. Other Ontario politicians joined Peterson in going all-out to humiliate Smith, though none dared to address the specific points he had raised. The man's only sin was to find one aspect of Keegstra's complex worldview acceptable.

Britain. Bob Geldof, the Irishman who produced the American and European Live Aid rock concerts for Africa, was accused of racism by listeners of Radio Station LBC because not enough of the performers were black. At the same time, Ms. Kathy Myers, a British(?) journalist, went on the air to claim that blondes have become more popular in Britain because of the "physical fascism which is a direct result of the Falklands War.

---

David Owen, one of those limp-brained and perhaps limp-wristed British diplomats, has decided that the venerable and honorable English language (his own) is "deeply offensive" to Negroes. He was horrified by such nouns as "black sheep" and "blackguard" and by such verbs as "blacklist" and "blackball." Though such terms came into the language long before most Englishmen had ever seen or heard of Negroes, Owen wants to root them out of the "black." Such terms are denigrating to whites and flattering to blacks, so in Owen's revised dictionary they can stand.

Luxembourg. Being an American travel writer these days means getting paid to visit wonderful places and never giving one's readers a clue as to what makes them wonderful. Last summer, the "Washington Post" paid Peter S. Greenberg and Rudy Máza to visit this 999-square-mile nation between Germany, France and Belgium. They found it "verdant and sparsely populated ... quite simply, an undiscovered jewel ... a place given to gentle hills, a cool climate and quiet nights."

In more ways than not, the country is a charming caricature. Luxembourg is a Renoir painting filled with flowers, storybook villages cradled next to peaceful rivers and castles sitting where castles should sit -- on top of tidy, green hills.

Greenberg and Máza cited a line from the national anthem, "we want to remain tranquil amid the constant hate."

Embourgers have virtually stopped having children, and that nearly one-third of the babies there now are the progeny of foreign "guest-workers. Yet how long will Findel Airport remain a "quiet, efficient place," and how long will the capital city's center stay "park-like," once noisy, trashy aliens have replaced the natives? The Americans were more interested in describing "medieval picture-postcard villages" than local bloodlines of more ancient lineage.

Greece. A Greek sea captain by the name of Antonis Plytzanopolous was non-plussed when he was arrested last March. He and 11 black stowaways walk the plank in shark-infested waters off the coast of Somalia. "Are you aware," he asked the court through his lawyer, "that sharks do not eat blacks and that hundreds of black kids dive from ships in the Caribbean every year to catch coins thrown by tourists at them or in pursuit of precious pearls without being eaten by sharks?"

Though, according to the Red Cross, none of the stowaways survived, another Greek sea captain testified that he would have done the same because black stowaways "are often criminals, they may be carrying arms, they have skin diseases ... also, they are Muslims and they do not use toilet paper."

"I am sure," he continued, "Captain Plytzanopolous was able to make the sign of the cross and go to bed peacefully afterwards. He could have killed them, but he tried to let them live." The witness agreed with his fellow skipper that the smell of black people was an effective shark repellant.

Israel. One of the few things harder than being a Christian in a Jewish state is being a Jewish Christian in a Jewish state. Baruch Maoz knows all about it. In 1963, the Boston-born Jew converted to Christianity while serving in the Israeli army. Today, he is pastor of the Grace and Truth Assembly in Rehovot. He and 20 fellow Christians were driven from their regular meeting place last winter by noisily demonstrating rabbis. They now meet in each other's homes.

Maoz fears for his life. Recently, a wheel fell off his car while he was driving. The bolts on all four wheels had been loosened. There have been death threats, and his obituary has appeared prematurely in several newspapers. Yet Maoz and his followers remain tranquil amid the constant hate.

Rabbi Moshe Porush, who has started an anti-missionary society, says that if someone tries to talk to a member of his family about Jesus, "It would be as if they had come to kill him."

---

The most ferocious anti-Zionists in Israel are not Palestinians, but members of the ultra-Orthodox sects of Jerusalem, who consider the modern Jewish state a "Nazi abomination" because Yahweh did not create it. These fanatics, 60,000 strong, are having very large families and expanding into non-Orthodox neighborhoods. Aharon Kovshi, who owns a Turkish bath on the edge of the Orthodox quarter, has had his property torched eight times and requires round-the-clock surveillance by armed watchmen and 14 guard dogs. (Hardly ideal for a relaxing dip!) As for Dan Avihar, his great sin, in Orthodox eyes, is to own a coed bakery shop. "What is this immorality?" he asks. "That men and women are together, buying fresh rolls?"

Religious fanaticism is rubbing off on the general Israeli population. Only a few years ago, Dizengoff Road in Tel Aviv was the popular strip where young men cruised for female companionship. No more. As in Beirut, 130 miles to the north, the nightclubs are beginning to close, while cafes and theaters and art galleries are losing business. Those who do venture forth are increasingly dressed in figure-concealing dresses. Some of the young men are donning black suits and matching hats. Israeli women are bound to feel ever more immorality," he asks. "That men and women are together, buying fresh rolls?"

Rabbi Meir Kahane and his Kach Party have found a Stepin Fetchit in the U.S. He is Ronald B. Saunders, chairman of the National Black Political Caucus, which the Brooklyn Jewish Press claims is the third largest black political group in the country (after the NAACP and the Urban League). Saunders backs Kahane 100% on his proposal to expel Israeli and West Bank Arabs now and ask questions later. "We cannot view Israel in terms of the democratic principles that apply to the U.S. or England," he intones. "This is the Middle East, not the Midwest." In Saunders’s opinion, Israel is "probably the most democratic country that ever existed, including ancient Greece!" Like Kahane, Saunders thinks all that niceness has got to stop.

Harper's editor Lewis Lapham was amused when he read Conor Cruise O’Brien's cover story on Israel in the October Atlantic. It was so very similar to what the man had written for him 10 months earlier! Those who missed both opportunities can read O’Brien’s thesis when Simon & Schuster publishes his new book, The Siege: Zionism and Israel.

Briefly, O’Brien is convinced that the Middle East stalemate will continue for many years to come. All the loud talk on both sides about “territory for peace” is simply window dressing. Both parties keep up the chatter because to stop would reveal their intransigence and give their enemy an edge. The fact is, the most generous terms being offered by anyone in Israel (except for the anti-Zionist far left) are light years removed from the most generous terms being tendered by anyone on the Arab side. Even if those two positions should miraculously meet, the result would be immediate civil war within both the Jewish and Palestinian camps, with the hardliners accusing the compromisers of selling out.

O’Brien emphasizes that the rhetoric of the Middle East debate “has been almost entirely the rhetoric of the Western Enlightenment tradition,” which is also favored by the Soviets. The Arab cause is almost always expressed in terms of creating “a secular and democratic state” in Palestine. But, as O’Brien observes, “If there were today a Palestinian state, and if it were indeed a democratic state, it would be unique in the Arab world (and unusual in the world outside the West).” “Islam,” he continues, “even more than any other of the great religions, denies the existence of the dichotomy, posited by the Western Enlightenment, between religious and political life.” Furthermore, the Oriental Jews who are rapidly taking over Israel have no Western ideological inheritance.

O’Brien’s practical lesson for the ordinary reader is that one should not waste precious hours reading all about any ballyhooed Peace Initiative in the Middle East (such as Shimon Peres’s recent offer to open direct pourparlers with Jordan). It’s all an elaborate PR game. Neither side is in any position to compromise, especially on the pivotal issue of Jerusalem.

Black Africa. At a press conference held in London last June, Emmanuel Kaddu, a young former member of the Ugandan secret police, confirmed that he had personally killed about 350 people during nine months of service, and tortured many others. Kaddu said he received his secret police training with 150 other Ugandans in Cuba during 1980. One month after he spoke, the government of Milton Obote was toppled by the military, and the Western press belatedly admitted that Obote’s 100,000 victims surpassed the death toll racked up by his distinguished predecessor, Idi Amin. Kaddu’s confession reached us via the Tiroler Tageszeitung (Austria), because the American papers at the time were much more interested in the bones of a certain deceased German doctor.

The revelations from Uganda brought back memories of 1979, when Africa’s “Big Three” dictators were overthrown within months of one another. All the media hype about Idi Amin (who made the mistake of killing an elderly jewess) pushed nearly from view the cruelties of his two rival tyrants.

Emperor Jean Bedel Bokassa of the Central African Empire (formerly the Central African Republic, and before that Ubangi-Shari) is remembered for his solid gold bed, his three-ton bronze throne and his habit of dining on the flesh of his enemies. Lending credence to the cannibalism charge is that it came from his cousin, David Dacko, the country’s first president following independence, who described for Western reporters the precise contents of the deep-freeze in Bokassa’s home.

On one occasion, Bokassa allegedly gathered his foes together on a football field and made them kill one another with baseball bats as the song Those Were the Days played merrily in the background.

The same “golden oldie” was also allegedly played for the victims of Africa’s third supersadist, on Christmas Eve 1975. That was a night when President-for-Life Macias Biyogo of Equatorial Guinea had 150 prisoners shot and hanged. Other citizens, less fortunate, were later crucified without benefit of music. During his 11 years in power, Macias murdered 50,000 people, or one-eighth of the national population, and drove more than half, including his wife, into exile. Most of the intellectuals and most of the Christian clergy were among those slaughtered.

Equatorial Guinea had been black Africa’s only Spanish colony, a relatively prosperous land where the illiteracy rate was only 11% and the infant mortality rate was one of the lowest on the continent. Then came independence in 1968. Following the election of Macias, noted one observer, “Equatorial Guinea dropped out of the world.” Macias gave himself 46 official titles, including “the national miracle,” while making torture a national policy.

It was during the 1964 civil war in Zaire’s southern Katanga Province that a black nun named Sister Anuarite shared the fate of many white nuns, and was clubbed and bayoneted for resisting rape. The killer, former Col. Pierre Opeme Olombe, was pardoned after five years in jail and now lives in the Zairian capital of Kinshasa. On his visit to town last August, Pope John Paul II beatified the black nun, while saying of her killer, who was believed to be in the audience, “I myself, in the name of the whole church, forgive [him] with all my heart.”
Following the landslide reelection last summer of Zimbabwe’s Prime Minister Robert Mugabe, his supporters predictably went ape, ransacking the homes and beating the persons of many leading black opponents. Mugabe’s men also gloated at the country’s remaining whites, who gave 15 of their 20 protected “white seats” in Parliament to Ian Smith’s Conservatives. Smith’s party of moderate appeasers had previously been whittled down to seven seats by the rival white party, which favors radical appeasement.

The 1985 elections marked the probable end of what might be called the Rhodesian Century. Mugabe is determined to abolish the white parliamentary quota agreement when it expires in 1987, and to create a one-party Marxist state. On his final hustings, Smith drew large, rapturous crowds as he lashed the Mugabeites, saying, “I hope they will listen to us. If they have any intelligence they will, if they want to keep our brains, our skills.”

Nigeria. To modernize the Nigerian economy in one fell swoop, the ruling junta some years ago figured it would need 20 million tons of cement. It was not long before freighters loaded with cement began to crowd the docks of Lagos, the country’s capital. The problem was that the port facilities were only capable of handling 2,000 tons a day. At one point it would have taken 27 years to unload the cement from the ships riding at anchor off Lagos harbor, ships that were carrying one-third of the world’s supply. Due to the long delays in offloading even a fraction of the cargo, much of the cement set up in the damp holds of the ships.

South Africa. The Satanic metaphor, which dogged Hitler from abroad for most of his 12 years in power, but which never gets pinned on leftists, has begun to enter the “debate” on South Africa. When Jerry Falwell returned from Pretoria calling Desmond Tutu a “phony,” Pat Oliphant responded with a couple of vicious cartoons portraying the Moral Majoritarian with a forked tail between his legs. The black American singer, Stevie Wonder, chimed in with a ditty called It’s Wrong (Apartheid).

The wretchedness of Satan’s wrath will come to seize you at last.
Cause even he frowns upon the deeds you’re doing.
You know Apartheid’s wrong. Like slavery was wrong.
Like the Holocaust was wrong.

* * *

America’s culture mulchers did everything they could do to deep-six the hilarious Africaner slapstick comedy The Gods Must Be Crazy. Yet, by word of mouth, the low-budget film packed ‘em in month after month (in a few cities and college towns), until, in early September, it became one of the highest-grossing foreign films ever to hit the United States, at $22 million. After endless critical put-downs of the “South African movie,” the Washington Post’s short, begrudging admission of its financial success referred to it twice as simply the “Afri­can comedy” and never mentioned the word “South.”

* * *

It is hardly remarkable that President Pieter W. Botha has begin to speak angrily of the U.S. How many Americans are aware of the text of President Reagan’s order last August imposing limited sanctions on a faithful ally?

I, Ronald Reagan, President of the United States, find that the policies and actions of the government of South Africa constitute an unusual and extraordinary threat to the foreign policy and economy of the United States and thereby declare a national emergency to deal with that threat.

* * *

When Lenin told his fellow Bolsheviks that “We will accomplish our goals through the useful idiots of the West,” he had men like Johan van Zyl and Raymond Parsons in mind. The first is chief executive of the South African Federated Chambers of Industry, the second, chief executive of the South African Association of Chambers of Commerce. These two South African renegades went before a United Nations panel on Sept. 18 to explain that “one-man, one-vote is certainly what [South African] business all supports.” They then qualified what they had said with talk of “some federalist kind of system” -- which only made them objects of scorn from the left as well as the right.

S.E.D. Brown’s monthly South African Observer: (P.O. Box 2401, Pretoria, South Africa; $18 per year, surface) contained some eye-opening material in its March 1985 issue. First came a story about Dr. Denis Worrall, South Africa’s leftist, internationalist ambassador to Britain, who has a Jewish wife with a Ph.D. in psychology and two Jewish children. Worrall had long been an ardent fan of Martin Luther King, Desmond Tutu and their ilk when, in 1974, none other than Pieter Botha plucked him from the integrationist Progressive Party and made him the National Party’s senator from Cape Town. Then, in 1977, Worrall was appointed as chairman of the Constitutional Committee of the President’s Council. It was he, with his great “legal expertise,” who largely created the new constitution which brought South Africa’s Indians and Coloreds into Parliament.

Worrall has never changed his views one iota, and is now telling the world that South Africa is in a “classic reform situation.” Actually, writes S.E.D. Brown, it is now in a classic revolutionary situation, the same one which Prof. M.T.W. Arnheim warned against in his prophetic 1979 book, South Africa After Vorster.

Arnheim is head of the Department of Classics at the University of Witwatersrand, and his encyclopedic grasp of world history has taught him one thing with perfect clarity: “reform,” in a situation like South Africa’s today, is precisely equivalent to throwing petrol on a fire. Yet all of the “experts” recognized by Botha are demanding more petrol. “There has been no real discussion of the basics [in South Africa],” says Arnheim, “or any fundamental debate.”

After describing the contrasting fates of Denis Worrall and M.T.W. Arnheim, S.E.D. Brown concludes:

We cannot punish those selling out our White nation and our prosperity, as long as the majority of Whites continue to ignore, condone or approve them.
But the day will come -- the day of reckoning -- the treason trials for which we have long been waiting and working.

Australia. At the annual meeting of the Australian and New Zealand Association for the Advancement of Science, Ms. Pau­no Hohepa, an instructor at Auckland University, got up on the podium and stated that the 18 million white inhabitants of Australasia are the riffraff, flotsam and jetsam of British culture and should be sent back to Britain forthwith. “We once held all the land,” orated the Maori pedagogue. “I represent those who are no longer content with a slice of bread -- we want the whole loaf.”

Mexico. Merle Frazier, a U.S. citizen and free-lance writer-photographer, was staying in Juarez, trying to make a living when he came a knock on his door. The Mexican Federales marched him off to the local jail and 24 hours later escorted him to the U.S. border. They warned him if he returned, he would spend a long time behind Mexican bars. Filiberto Terrazas, Director of Mexican Immigration in Juarez, explained: “He was working here in violation of the law. Mexico has a right to defend its sovereignty, who enters and who doesn’t.”

Yes, Mexico does have the right to defend its sovereignty against one interloping American. But no, America apparently doesn’t have the right to defend its sovereignty against illegal millions of “them.”

* * *
Lone Eagle's Reward

Minnesota is finally getting around to honoring appropriately its greatest native son, Charles A. Lindbergh (1902-74). The international terminal at the Minneapolis airport will henceforth bear the aviator's name. Visitors to the state Capitol will find statues nearby of Lindbergh the boy and Lindbergh the man and pilot. And the Charles A. Lindbergh Fund, started in New York eight years ago, has, for the first time, held its annual meeting and awards program in Minnesota -- as part of Lindbergh Heritage Week. This year's recipient of the Fund's prestigious Lindbergh prize, for contributions to resolving conflicts between technology and the environment, was Russell Train, farseeing president of the World Wildlife Fund.

Lindbergh was in the doghouse with most of the East Coast establishment in the late 1930s, after he had been decorated by Goering and had assumed a leading role on the isolationist America First Committee. All too typical of the snubs that he and his memory have since received was the stamp issued in May 1977 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first transatlantic solo flight: Lindbergh's name was conspicuous by its absence!

But Minnesotans are no longer shy of the Lindbergh name, and much of the credit belongs to former Gov. Elmer L. Andersen, president of the Lindbergh Fund. In the decade before Lindbergh's death, Andersen got to know him, and drew him back toward his boyhood home in Little Falls. The Lone Eagle's growing interest in his roots was reciprocated by the growing enthusiasm of Minnesotans for a man once saluted as the nation's greatest hero and little more than a decade later denigrated by the media as a quasi-Nazi.

Jersey Dance Fest

Want to trip the light fantastic to the waltz, polka, schottische, galop, contradances, quadrilles, cotillions or other old-time dances? Want not to bump, grind, shimmy, shake, twist and spin on your head and backside? Then write to Dance, 1375 Clinton Avenue, Irvington, NJ 07111. You'll have a ball, a Victorian ball, from 8 to midnight. Don't worry about stepping on your partner's toes. Instructors will show you exactly how to move your inexperienced feet when learning these dances, which are not as esoteric as they sound. Unchain yourself from the tube at least one night a week. Singles and couples are welcome.

Zapping Sacred Cows

Almost trebly, James Q. Wilson and Richard Herrnstein have written a book, Crime and Human Nature, which alludes, again almost trebly, to the possibility that there is a genetic factor in crime. How horrible! How fascist! Few reviewers, naturally, read what the rest of the book said, and whenever one of the authors appeared on a TV talk show to discuss the book, almost all the discussion was focused on that one "sore point."

Time after time in an interview on the TV program Crossfire, author Wilson had to explain that criminality is a complex web of genetic and environmental components. All the genes do is provide a predisposition to crime. They are, so to speak, the innate twitch in the finger that pulls the trigger.

To take the argument one step further, which the authors were afraid to do, let us pose this embarrassing question: If crime has a hereditary component, which is distributed differently among human beings, then isn't this same component distributed differently among races? To be blunt, isn't the frequency of "genetic predisposition to crime" higher in some races than in others?

Most Majority members already know the answer, but it will probably be many more years until the "experts" have enough guts to ask the question.

Herrnstein was also in the news recently because of an article he wrote for Fortune (July 22, 1985), in which he attacked another social science article of faith -- that IQ, SAT and various other tests are biased against minorities. If this were so, Herrnstein claimed, then blacks and Hispanics would do better in college than the tests predicted. Instead, blacks and Hispanics do worse, which means that bias in the tests, if it exists, actually favors nonwhites by overemphasizing their abilities to handle college courses.

Herrnstein also wrote that if university admissions officers based their decisions entirely on SAT and other tests, nearly 90% of the blacks and Hispanics in law and medical schools would never have been admitted, as well as at least 15% of the minority students in the so-called white colleges.

Another interesting statistic reported by Herrnstein: a student with a 25 point lower SAT score than another student needs to study about 10 hours a week more than the latter in order to match the latter's grades.

A Shield for Cops

The government of New York City pays about $7 million each year to citizens who sue its police officers for roughness or brutality. Some of the awards are justified, but in many instances the cops insist that they were simply defending themselves against violent or abusive individuals. The problem has gotten so bad that the city Law Department has begun countersuing some of the people who first sued the city. As of last winter, the city was seeking to win monetary judgments for itself and officers in 23 cases. Most were still pending at that time, but Officer Catherine De La Rionda was awarded $50,000 for injuries suffered during a narcotics arrest. Unfortunately, her attacker proved to be indigent.

Countersuits will be filed only in cases where there is clear evidence that an officer was assaulted without provocation. One aim is to make people think twice before suing the city. James Meyerson of the NAACP calls the new policy "horrible."

Vive la Résistance!

Here and there, Americans are resisting the tide of illegal immigration:

- In Harlingen, Texas, a 40-year-old ex-Marine named Mike Rodriguez has established a group called Citizens for Church and Country. Its target is the law-breaking "sanctuary" movement, and Rodriguez has called on the Vatican to investigate those involved.

- In Albany, the state legislature has approved a bill which will assist the federal government in deporting some 2,500 illegal immigrants now in the New York State prison system. At least $25 million a year in prison costs would be saved.

- In Miami, the federal government recently filed 1,100 civil suits against the boat captains who illegally "boatlifted" 125,000 Cubans from Mariel Harbor in 1980. A $1,000 fine is being sought for each illegal "refugee," or $125 million in all. Last year, Judge Sidney Aronovitz cancelled $4.6 million in fines against the boat owners, but the federal appellate court in Atlanta later overruled him, clearing the way for the government's new suits.